Personality Development in the Second Half of Life

This workshop explores a variety of issues around the topic of personality in later life, including patterns of coping and interacting, the myths and realities of the midlife crisis and beyond, memory disorders, and the presence of personality disorders. It will provide practical implications of the research for clinicians to use in interacting more successfully with older adults in a variety of settings. Paula M. Taliaferro, MGS, LSW, will present.
3 contact hours for nurses, social workers and nursing home administrators

Thur., Oct. 27, 2011
9:00 a.m. - 12:15 p.m.

Complicating Issues in Persons with Developmental Disabilities

Incidence of developmental disabilities, such as autism, is on the rise. These individuals are becoming increasingly integrated into the general community using all the resources available to our society. Understanding developmental disabilities and some of the potential complicating issues is important when providing all forms of professional services to these individuals. This presentation will increase understanding of developmental disabilities and several complicating factors such as mental health disorders, dementia, and forensic issues. Joseph E Kovesdi, PhD, Clinical Psychologist, will present.
3 contact hours for nurses and social workers; applications submitted to BENHA for nursing home administrators and Ohio Board of Developmental Disabilities

Tues., Nov. 8, 2011
9:00 a.m. - 12:15 p.m.

Most Commonly Prescribed Drugs

According to a 2010 report by researchers of the CDC's National Center for Health Statistics, 48 percent of all Americans took at least one prescription drug during a one-month study. For those 60 and older, it increased to 88 percent; for the 12 and under group, 22 percent. This program will review the most commonly prescribed drugs for differing age groups and focus on issues relating to those drugs. Karen Kier, RPh, MSc, PhD, will present.
